DCL Medical Laboratories, founded in 1984, has expanded from a fine needle biopsy clinic and cytology lab to a full-service regional laboratory with operations across the Midwest. The company provides services including specialty testing in molecular diagnostics and anatomic pathology services in global clinical trials for both pharmaceutical and medical device companies.

To meet growing customer demand, DCL needed to add capacity at their existing operation in Collinsville, IL. At the time of the expansion, the company employed 38 people at the Collinsville facility.

Bingham Economic assisted DCL in securing financial incentives to support the project.
